Purpose

To provide eligible Volunteer Ground Search and Rescue (GSAR) Associations/ Organizations with correct criteria to determine, record and report 'Eligible Volunteer Hours' for a Search and Rescue Volunteers Tax Credit for their respective members regardless of Province /Territory of residence within Canada.

This Tax Credit is a welcomed benefit to the GSAR Volunteers who commit their personal time, effort, and equipment to finding lost persons in their communities. The new Tax Credit (SRVTC) represents federal recognition of the important role played by search and rescue volunteers in contributing to the security and safety of the citizens and visitors to our country. The establishment of this Search and Rescue Volunteer Tax Credit, is a strong statement on behalf of the Government Canada and the general public in support of our efforts.

Qualifying Criteria

- Volunteers who perform in excess of 200 'Eligible Hours' in a calendar year will be able to claim a $3,000 non refundable tax credit on their personal tax return at 15% credit rate such that they would receive $450 in tax savings.
- The sum of $3,000 must be entered on Line 31240 of your personal tax return.
- The credit cannot be claimed in conjunction with any honorarium, bursary or paid service.
- The breakdown of Eligible and Other Search and Rescue Services (Primary Service and Secondary Service) is required along with the total number of hours.
- The accreditation must appear on Authorized letterhead (SARVAC, attached)

- The credit is available for 2014 tax year and beyond. Hours are accumulated based on the calendar year (January 1 to December 31) and cannot be carried forward into the next year.
- The credit is nonrefundable and as such, members need to have taxable income and tax payable in the year to benefit from this credit.
- If you don't meet the minimum 200 hour criteria, then you are NOT eligible to claim the tax credit.

Eligible Search and Rescue Services (Primary Service)(Mandatory minimum 101+ hours)

Primary Service is defined as Service in “Direct” support of GSAR Operations.

- Eligible hours for Primary Services:

  - Being placed on Standby at your place of assembly by your respective (AHJ);
  - Attending Provincial/Territorial meetings for Boards, Associations and Teams; dealing with Provincial/Territorial Operations;
  - Participating in required training both knowledge based and practical skills related to search and rescue services; and
  - Please see detailed breakdown in Primary Services Table 1.

Other Search and Rescue Services - Secondary Service

Secondary Service is service is Service in Support of GSAR Operations

- Eligible hours for Secondary (other) Services:
  - Time devoted to assisting the GSAR Unit, Region, Provincial/Territorial Association, or National organization, with general administration including, policies and training package development, Social Media, and event planning;
  - Participation in a community event for the purpose of promoting the organization and the delivery of SAR prevention materials;
  - Participation in maintenance activity of dedicated GSAR equipment, vehicles or vessels; and
  - Participation in fundraising activities at the local level to support the operations of GSAR teams.
- To meet the criteria of the SRVTC, the number of eligible GSAR search and rescue volunteer service hours of Primary Service described above, must exceed, the number of hours devoted to Secondary Service.

- The applicable policies and procedures of the Search and Rescue Volunteer Association of Canada, (SARVAC) shall be applied to determine the number of hours of Eligible (Primary) and Other (Secondary Service) for current tax year.
- To be eligible, a Provincial or Territorial GSAR Association or Organization must be a member of the Search and Rescue Volunteer Association of Canada (SARVAC).
- The P/T Association or Organization must provide qualified volunteers with a letter of confirmation supporting the minimum 200 hours and attesting to the number of hours of eligible search and rescue services performed by the individual on behalf of the Association/Organization by GSAR team in the current tax year. This letter can also be provided (as directed by SARVAC) by Association/team presidents or other individuals who fill an administrative role. (All hours must be supported with proper documentation)

(Eligible) Primary / Other (Secondary) Service Hours

- As per CRA guidance: For the purpose of determining the number of eligible search and rescue volunteer service hours, the number of Eligible (Primary) Service hours must exceed 101, but the combined Eligible (Primary) and Other (Secondary) hours must be a minimum of 200 hours. Some individuals may meet the 200 minimum hour criteria with their Primary hours, before adding any Secondary hours.
- After the minimum requirements have been met, there is no restriction on the amount of hours a volunteer may contribute.
- A few examples of whether an individual is eligible:

101 Primary, 99 Secondary	YES, minimum 200 hour criteria met

Supporting Volunteer Hours

- A. Support by proper record keeping and documentation - It is of critical importance that in every instance, the collecting and reporting of volunteer hours is controlled such that the person certifying the hours has the ability to support the hours reported to the Canada Revenue Agency should they enquire or audit.
- B. Certification – Each Association or Provincial/Territorial (P/T) organization should ensure that their member teams follow the CRA rules for the Tax Credit being claimed. They should identify the appropriate persons or authority that is able to certify and issue letters of support for hours incurred as defined above. For whatever method of recording hours that is utilized, it is necessary for the person certifying at years-end to be able to support the hours with evidence. These people need to be aware that they are providing evidence to support a tax credit and as such it needs to be treated with the utmost diligence. Any reporting of illegitimate hours in particular could be considered non-compliance with the law. The P/T Associations or organizations can determine the most appropriate person in each circumstance such as the Regional Directors, volunteer supervisors/managers, GSAR Team executives, or others as designated.

- C. Notification to the Volunteer – As per above, all volunteers need to be informed that the hours being reported, is also their (the volunteer) responsibility. They are to ensure that it is a true reflection of the volunteer hours given for the year. It is the Volunteer’s personal tax return that this credit will be applied to. Knowingly providing false information could lead to audit, re-assessment, or legal proceedings against them, and compromise the benefit for all.
- D. Tracking – It is anticipated that for P/T Associations or GSAR organizations who are responsible for volunteer GSAR teams, and are using a type of SAR Management System (SMS), that this system will be able to record and support the hours noted above. In cases where this system is not available or appropriate, it is required that another system is utilized to accumulate and support the hours such as spreadsheets, databases, other software, or a paper based method be put in place.
- E. Timely Reporting – The person(s) responsible for providing the necessary supporting document should do so no later than the end of February each year. This is consistent with other tax document reporting deadlines (i.e. T4, RRSP, etc.). This will allow the eligible member ample opportunity to complete their tax return in a timely manner.

Other issues

- Volunteer perception – It is clear that a portion of the membership will not be able to achieve 200 hours a year which may have the unintended consequence of members who are upset or discontent. It needs to be made clear to these members that their organization significantly appreciates all the volunteer efforts large or small, and that the tax credit is simply an additional form of recognition and support for active members. This threshold has been set by government, not the GSAR community. This recognition of qualifying members is an added and unexpected benefit for all those who volunteer without expectation of remuneration.
- Inappropriate volunteering – Concern has been raised that certain members of the public may see volunteers use our Associations/Organizations as a method to gain a personal tax credit. SARVAC views this as a remote likelihood especially if all policies herein are followed as per CRA Criteria. The 200 hour requirement is a significant accomplishment and a very low rate of return is received on the volunteer’s investment of time and dedicated efforts. However; it is worth noting that it is up to the Associations/Organizations to continue with appropriate recruiting, screening, and management of applicants to ensure that new members are not joining for the wrong reasons.
